Who is Advisory & Management for? Externalised CISO

Advisory is for organisations who have business critical technologies, but might not have the seasoned information security leadership needed to support them.

Information security, and cyber security as a subset, is an integral part of every successful organisation, regardless of its business. Our advisory and management services are designed to help you manage your information security. Be it a short term, project specific or a long-term involvement, we are ready to assist you.

How Do We Help?

While we offer several services to fill common security needs, we understand that sometimes bespoke help is required to tackle the more complex or delicate issues facing organisations. We can help you solve these – and similar – challenges with our advisory and management offering.

Externalised CISO

Should your organisation requires a CISO, we can act as a part of your team, proactively catering to all your information security requirements.

Due to very high demand for knowledgeable talent, CISO positions can be extremely hard to fill. Additionally, the high skill level required of CISOs often means that the right professionals can be reassuringly expensive. In practice, this leads many organisations to overstretch their CTOs to also act as the de-facto CISO. We can help you with our CISO services.

Cyber Security Management

If you are having troubles creating or managing you cyber security posture, let our experts help you. Our world-class team will assist you with any cyber security challenges you may be facing. We can help you with anything from tightening your security to responding to an active breach.

Additionally, we can also implement The CIS Controls™ as a prioritised set of cybersecurity best practices and actions designed to protect organisations and data from known cyber-attack vectors.
